DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential structural cooperative relationships of elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the necessary structural connections. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted structural cooperative relationships are: "the interface adaptor provides a fixing for a microphone on an interface". "A fixing" is not a structural element to physically link the interface adaptor and an interface. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 8-11 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Long et al. U.S. Patent No. 4,361,736.

Art Unit: 2614

Regarding claim 8, Long discloses a boundary layer adapter for receiving a microphone comprising: a receiving unit (14) having a hole for receiving a microphone (10), said receiving unit being adapted to be placed on a boundary layer (13); and at least one arresting unit (16) for arresting a received microphone (See Fig. 4 and col. 5, lines 14-29).

Regarding claim 9, Long further discloses an elongate guide unit (15) for guiding a received microphone (See Fig. 4, guide 15 guides microphone to face the boundary surface).

Regarding claims 10 and 11, Long further discloses means for solid-conducted sound decoupling (12) (See col. 5, lines 21-25).

Regarding claim 15, Long discloses a boundary layer adapter for receiving a microphone comprising: at least one guide element (15) for receiving a microphone (10), said guide element being adapted to be placed on a boundary layer (13, through connecting element 11); at least one arresting unit (14) for arresting a received microphone; and a connecting element (11) for connecting the guide elements (See Fig. 4 and col. 5, lines 14-29).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Long et al.

Art Unit: 2614

Regarding claims 12 and 13, Long discloses means for solid-conducted sound decoupling as claimed. Long does not expressly disclose the means for solid-conducted sound decoupling are in the form of rubber rings. However, the shape of the decoupling means will not affect the function of decoupling the solid-conducted sound. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to utilize any shape decoupling means to prevent solid-conducted sound from reaching the microphone.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Long et al. in view of Akino U.S. Patent No. 6, 226,386.

Regarding claim 14, Long discloses an interface adaptor as claimed. Long does not expressly disclose a buffer in the through hole for receiving the microphone. However, the use of buffers is well known in the art and Akino teaches a buffer (1, shock mount, see col. 3, lines 61-63) to minimize vibration between the case and microphone. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to utilize the buffer of Akino in the interface adapter of Long to further improve vibration in the microphone from the boundary.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 16 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 2614

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 8-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
